Call for Applications: Student Interns for Principal's Internship Scheme 2026-27 for a three month internship in policy research project on Educator's Competency under the mentorship of Dr. Jigar Inamdar, Chairman, Governing Body.

About the Project: This is going to be stage two of comparative study of how Delhi University recruits, evaluates, develops and governs its faculty completed by students in last session. They measured it against 18 of the world's leading universities and 10 of India's finest institutions, and looked closely at how far NEP 2020 has actually been put into practice. The study closes with a reform agenda of nine points for Delhi University. Its ideas range from an independent faculty recruitment board and a transparent digital scoring system to international experts on selection panels, a stronger annual evaluation, and a dedicated centre for faculty development. As an intern, you will help identify and reach out to fifty authorities in education. They will include vice chancellors, deans, policy scholars, NEP experts and academic leaders, from both India and abroad. Through structured conversations you will gather their suggestions, and then help bring the inputs together so that the reform agenda becomes not only sound but genuinely practical and ready to put into action. In this way, a strong student study grows into a thoroughly tested proposal that carries the weight of expert opinion.

What You Will Gain: Selected interns receive direct mentorship from Dr. Jigar Inamdar and real experience in policy research, expert outreach, evidence synthesis and report writing.
